There is a park across the road from my home. At a glance, it is not dissimilar to any other park you might think of. However, the moment you set your foot in it, you know that something is different. ⁴⁰

Perhaps, what stands out about this park is its size. It is really tiny yet it has this charm (it that captivates you instantaneously. As you make your way through its lush ^{vegetation}, numerous noises and smells enter ^{your} nostrils and ears. A mellow fragrance of freshly cut grass, absorbing whispers of blossoming plants, twittering of the birds and fish splashing in the lake all create an unmistakable and pleasant mélange. If your legs are tired, have a rest in the shades of towering trees, try to blend in with the nature. After that, you might want to have a look at the quaint monuments of which there is no poor one.

But nothing is perfect, including this park. Firstly, it could certainly have a bunch of benches added, which will come in handy as the stifling summer weather ensues. Secondly, there are no shops in the park where you can buy things. And an ice cream booth would probably save a stranger or two.

All in all, it is an amazing park that, once you have visited, will never leave your mind, that

Essay

Nowadays, it is really important to go out with friends and relax. Luckily, there are a lot of places where you can have fun in Kazan.

I usually visit Gorkiy Park and, to my mind, it is worth a visit for every tourist. Unlike the other parks, this one has a lot of clean cafes, sport facilities and some exciting ~~new~~ buildings. There is a statue, that looks like a spider, and, which is, as for me, the best, a musical fountain. However, my favourite part of being there is walking. I really ^{like} ~~enjoy~~ standing on the bridge, enjoying the view of trees with hundreds of shades of red and yellow and how they all blend in orange. I just love to smell fresh autumn air. I remember all those times I have been there with my friends, joking, laughing and singing, and I can't ~~wait~~ wait to meet them again.

On the other hand, I admit that it is sometimes a little bit boring in there and this could be improved by adding more quaint events. Also, there are a lot of dirt, which is awful. The administration should take care of this problem.

To conclude, I would like to say that I really love Gorkiy Park and I think that everyone should visit it.

I tend to spend plenty of my spare time outdoors, and I find walking in parks around the trees beyond delightful. lex.

The one I visit the most is located conveniently - right near the school I take classes in, a big shopping mall down the street, and a cinema. That is why it smells like caramel popcorn in the park! There is a new colorful playground for children of all ages, so they're selling cotton candy. The smells of freshly groomed grass, a warm summer rain blend in with the smell of sweets.

Benches of all shades are ~~all~~ ⁱⁿ around the park, so you can always have rest. Moreover, there are wooden tables and chairs there. Sometimes I study ^{in the park} there to change the scene a little, and that is the reason this park is different from others for me.

Writing.

I have been to a lot of parks throughout my life but I liked visiting the Victory Park in Yoshkar-Ola the most.

I remember everything at the same very moment when I just spot quaint green leaves, the smell of grass and trees, the noise of wind and laughing people, monuments dedicated to soldiers. All of it inspires me, clears up my mind and makes me proud of my country. Such effects are caused only with this park, which defines its uniqueness. Of course, these are the reasons why I enjoy this place. If I enter the park at summer and wander along it for some time, all colours blend in, though, it is not the same picture for autumn. Despite grey sky and wet weather, the park obtains its greatest form. Red, yellow and green leaves surround the way; white fountains, brown benches together with flowers are all along the path. Even shades make it better in the evenings as they create an aura of mystery. However, there is one issue, that these benches are not protected from rain at all. I would make them rotatable so dry part could be put.

All in all, I recommend visiting the Victory Park one day.

Emotions will never ever be forgotten.

Nowadays, there is at least one park in each city of the world. They are all different but very ^{seel} helpfull for ^{or} planet's environment. This summer I visited a really beautiful park in Kazan. Due ^{or} to my weak memory I can't ^{yo} remember it's exact name now. It's located near the "Korston" shopping centre. ²

As I entered the park I suddenly felt fresh air getting into my lungs. It felt like I became healthier in a second. Birds were flying around and singing beautifully just ^{if} if I got in some Disney movie. The sun was shining through green leaves of the trees and it ^{let} caused amazing shades on the ground.

This park seemed different from other parks. The area was surrounded by trees; ¹¹¹ sounds of fountains, people's ^{seel} absence - all together it ^{or} were calming me down. I felt like I was far away from the city even though this park is located in the centre of Kazan.

I, personally, wouldn't change anything in the park. However, some people think it needs improvement. They say it would be better-- if it had more local stores and interesting features for visitors.¹⁸⁶

In conclusion, I would strongly recommend you to visit the park I described so you can see and most importantly feel the nature itself

Many people ~~truly~~ love spending their free time ~~out~~ on the street. Even though they live in a ~~large city~~ hectic city with all ~~convenience~~ facilities, like ~~supermarkets~~, swimming pools, gyms, etc., included, people ~~really~~ need a secluded place to have ~~some~~ rest. And what can be better ~~off~~ than a ~~light~~ walk in a park?

It has already passed three years ever since I became an everyday visitor of ~~a~~ wonderful place called the Park of Gorkiy. By and large, it can be divided into two ~~fundamentally~~ different zones. The first one is mostly for kids' entertainment. This is where all the noise comes from. It always reminds me of a ~~large~~ buzzing hive. When I walk through such a hive, it seems that ~~everything~~ every single thing and every single being never stops screaming, crying, ~~moving~~ or probably even buzzing. However, there is ~~the~~ second zone, which is a ~~complete~~ opposite of the first. Perhaps, never can anyone ~~find~~ find a more quiet place than that! Walking through it, I ~~can~~ hardly hear a rustle or a whisper. The freshness of air and a savoury smell from the pinetrees make a paradise ^{for} your nose, while the leaves, ~~not~~ blending in the air, make shades, which relaxes your ~~eyes~~ ^{eyes} quaint eyes. One more special thing about the park is that there, in the second zone, dwell ~~the~~ ^{the} squirrels. It's an unforgettable memory to feed one of them!

All in all, ~~nothing~~ almost nothing can be done to improve the Park of Gorkiy, but it would certainly be better without the first zone.

Part 3.

I have visited once the Culture park in Cheboksary. As I happened to be alone, I spent an hour walking in this park.

It was January, so the weather was cold. The usual smell of dirt and snow blended in; this kind of smell can give you chills, especially if it is freezingly cold. The noise of cars passing by the park was bumbling through the head; actually, it was extremely annoying. The shades of white, black and gray were everywhere. There was nothing colourful; nothing like sun as it was cloudy. Of course, when it is January and it is cold, expecting cheerful colours and birds tweeting is completely strange; though in other parks, there are always unique decorations, like Christmas trees and red lights. The Culture park is different. It is unexpectedly calm ^{le} and silent. So the one thing that should be improved is the cleaning system. The dirt is just everywhere, so cleansées should happen more frequently. Also, making some place for ice skating could be fine.

lex. The white colour quaints; when the snow falls, white colour blinds you with its purity and brightness. The Culture park is extremely quiet, so cleaning your thoughts and relaxing ^{le} is easy - so easy you stop thinking about how much dirt is there. This is a perfect place ^{we} for a silence lover.

Part 3. Writing

Some time ago at the weekend my family decided to visit a place in our city where we could relax, enjoy peace and quietness and have a wonderful time together. I suggested going to a new park that is devoted to the 70th anniversary of the Victory Day. When I memorise this trip, I have vivid recollections about smell and noises in this place. At first I was really surprised by a strong smell of grass and spring flowers. There were so many plants and trees. ~~Then I could hear loud bird~~ I also remember hearing loud bird 'songs', children laughing and screaming. Through years this park has these sounds and smells have been associated with only this park. It just differs from other places a lot. I can't remember another park in Volgograd where you can feel your deep connection with nature, simply enjoy sitting on the ground and looking around. Because of a big number of trees it isn't so hot there in summer. And you can find many benches to sit under tree shades. So, this place it's pleasant to visit this place for people of all ages. But in my opinion, some things should be improved there. Firstly, it would be better not to colour a playground in bright yellow and red because all other things just blend in. And secondly, there should be more rubbish bins near benches. That's all I wanted to say.

The best park I have ever visited.

I've been to many parks in my city. I have also been to many different parks in different cities. But the park I'm going to talk about is really unique, quaint and impressive.

First of all, this park is located inside the forest. So ^p some people associate the park with the smell of fresh green grass that blends in with green leaves of the trees, birds' singing and the tranquility that the park ^{gr} surrounded by. ^{sp} Moreover, in winter it is especially gorgeous when the whole park is covered with white snow.

What ^{gr} make the park so different from other parks ^{gr} is ~~that it~~ the fact that it is one of the biggest park in the world. It stretches up to the hills where you can see spectacular scenery and all shades of colours during the sunset. ^p Moreover, it's a good place to organize a picnic with friends, relatives in order to get ^{so} unforgettable memories and just to have fun.

Although this ~~you~~ park is really good, it could be improved in some ways. I think, it would be awesome if it had.

Some restaurants for people to rest and ^{sp} eat in. Some people get hungry and thirsty after a long ^{log} walk. ^p Moreover, there ^{so} should be laid some paths in order that people walk with convenience.

In conclusion, I would like to say that ~~this~~ park is really special and should be visited. Though, it needs some improvements, it is considered to be the best and one of the biggest parks in the world ^{so}

Part 3. Writing.

There are a lot of parks in the world. In parks we can walk, eat, listen to music, relax with our family and so on. I live in Kazan so my favourite park in Kazan too. My lovely park is the "Gorky's park". I like to walk in this park. When I come to this place I sit on the grass and it is very comfortable, because I sit in shades under the big green trees. Once I visited this park and I took a photo with plants, this photo is very beautiful because my T-shirt is blue with plants. There are parking zones for cars, walking roads for people and road for riding bike. It is very cool. In this park there is only one noise, it is children's laughing. Sometimes we can hear good music. Smells are very tasty, it's logical because there are a lot of plants, and next to the walking road we can buy popcorn. This park is different from other parks because of the "Goosta cafe". This cafe is very nice, I like it. I think that maybe only animation team can improve this park. I would recommend people to visit this beautiful park.
