PART I. READING COMPREHENSION

Task 1.1. Read the text and decide if the statements (1-10) are true (TRUE) or false (FALSE). (10 баллов)

Simon Dale didn't want to live in a 'mass-produced box' on a housing estate. So, he made a brave decision. He decided to build his own home in the countryside. He moved to rural Wales with his family and built a wooden eco-house. With the help of his father-in-law, a builder, he moved into a cosy new home after only four months. It only cost £3,000 to build.

The Hobbit House, as local people call it, is made of natural materials. Simon Dale and his father-in-law dug into the side of a hill and then used the mud and stone to make the walls. The frame of the house and the floors are made from wood from the surrounding area. The design is open-plan.

There is no central heating, but there's a wood-burner and solar panels on the roof which provide power for lighting, music and computing. A skylight in the roof provides lots of natural light and a pond in the front garden collects rainwater. Drinking water is from a nearby spring. There's a compost toilet and the fridge stays cool thanks to air from under the ground. Simon Dale says, 'We try to live in harmony with the natural world.' He has certainly done his best to achieve that.

1. Simon Dale has always loved living in a block of flats in a city.
2. He constructed a house in a rural area.
3. Simon paid workers to build a house for his family.
4. Simon thought that the house cost much to build.
