PART 4. WRITING

Are modern teenagers still interested in reading Books?

Reading Books is a unique and a very useful process. It opens doors to different worlds, worlds where you will never have a chance to get to. It broadens your mind, shows different horizons. But, unfortunately, the popularity of reading is drastically declining. Modern teenagers are totally engrossed in social media, mobile phones and computers. And it can be easily explained why. It is a fast and easy way to get any information you want.

But there is also a misconception that teenagers do not read at all. Is this really the case? Today we will try to substantiate or confirm this fact. 28

Let's start from the beginning: where did this myth come from? Perhaps this opinion was formed due to the fact that teenagers don't read school literature with special interest. And all because they are forced to do this, but they in no way instill a love for their native literature. Perhaps this is why teachers and parents think that teenagers don't like to read at all. Yes, there are interesting works, but the very fact that teenagers are forced to read it immediately discourages the desire.

We should show them how unique the world of reading can be. Nothing can substitute the feeling of leafing through a new book, and nothing can be compared with the smell of a new book.

Read what you want and enjoy the moment!
