USE OF ENGLISH (TASK 6)

A useful mushroom

A French gentleman happened to be in Switzerland at a roadside inn where German was the only language spoken; and as he could not speak German, he had some difficulty in making known his wants. Among other things he wanted some mushrooms, but could not make his landlord understand this. At last a brilliant idea struck him. He seized a piece of charcoal and drew on the wall a rough picture of a mushroom. At this the innkeeper was delighted and hurried off to fetch what he now perceived the guest to want. "At last!" exclaimed the Frenchman, "it is a fortunate thing I hit on that plan; otherwise I should have had to go without my favourite mushrooms."

The landlord returned in a few minutes, carrying - not the mushrooms, for that was not how he had understood the picture - but an umbrella
